Alicia Sarles

In 1983, after being a parent in the Transfiguration community for nine years, Alicia Sarles assumed the role of Kindergarten teacher. Her devotion to the education of hundreds of wonderful children lasted for 25 years.

As her commitment to her family—daughter, Shannon; son-in-law, Brad; and adored granddaughter, Erin—became a main focus in her life, it was with mixed emotions that Alicia decided to retire. She felt she needed more time to enjoy the gift of being a Grandma.

She will always cherish her tenure at Transfiguration. An experience she calls one of the most rewarding of her life. She truly misses the daily contact with her friends and coworkers, the children, and the unending support of the parents. She treasures the memories, and is now looking forward to the next adventure in her life.

Alicia tells us, “Remember, all that you needed to know you really did learn in Kindergarten . . . I know I did!”

Peg Piedimonte

Peg experienced a wonderful childhood spent growing up in beautiful Irvington, N.Y. She has very fond memories of Irvington High School, and still keeps in touch with many OLD classmates!

After graduating from Albany Business College, she returned to Westchester, where she met a very handsome soldier returning from Vietnam. In October, she and Mike celebrated their 39th wedding anniversary.

The Piedimontes have lived in Tarrytown for more than 30 years, and Mike was a Tarrytown police officer for 34 years! Peg worked at many diverse positions in the area, including positions at Phelps Memorial Hospital, Lyndhurst Castle, and the Village of Tarrytown. When daughter, Lisa, started at Transfiguration School as a Pre-K student, Peg “volunteered to help out” at the school, and she was hooked!

Twenty-six years later, with Mike retired, and Lisa and her husband Jeff, settled in Tarrytown, she joyfully made the decision to hang up her many hats, retire, and take up golf.

Goodbye
tension,
